BANNER DAY FOR TOBACCO DELIVERY

Five Thousand Loads of 1910 Crop
Were Delivered To Edgerton
Dealers On Saturday.

Edgerton, Feb. 6.—The delivering of the 1910 crop of tobacco to the various warehouses now open and in active operation continues brisk, but Saturday was the banner day when the delivering reached about 5,000 loads. This is expected will continue for some time as other warehouses other than those now open will begin to receive. This morning the Scott warehouse opened for the season with a good force and others will follow in the near future.

Realty Transfer.
A deal was closed Saturday night whereby Frank Cook of Cook's Corners, two miles north of Edgerton, became owner of the John Hanson farm in the town of Fulton. The farm consists of 40 acres and sold at $100 per acre, being the highest price paid for real estate sold in this vicinity for some time. Possession will be given March 25. Mr. Hanson will move with his family to Irvington, Ala., having bought a 40 acre fruit farm there.

Personal.
John Hoveland of Cottage Grove, Dane County, was in town Saturday on business. Mr. Hoveland is an extensive farmer there and in addition is doing a big business in the buying of furs. Last winter he states he handled over $30,000 of the product.
Mrs. N. E. Nelson arrived Saturday from Racine on a visit of several days with neighbors and friends.

CLINTON.
Clinton, Feb. 6.—Clinton I. Collier arrived Friday night from Seattle, Wash.
Oliver Wilson of Madison arrived here Saturday night to spend Sunday with Jay Green.

ville in his demonstration automobile yesterday.

The following went to Chicago, Friday, to attend the auto show: Charles Lee, Jerome Torwiller, Hon. S. S.
Jones, P. H. Loda, O. B. Unstad, H.
Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C.
Smith.

Otto Hunter, son of Robert Hunter, who has been attending Concordia college at Springfield, Ill., fitting himself for the ministry, was compelled to give up his studies on account of his eyes, which have given him a great deal of trouble. He will be compelled to cease all work at studying for at least a year and possibly for all time. He arrived home last Friday.

A. H. McMaster was in town Saturday calling on his old friends.

Rush human of Janesville was callloit, Saturday noon, to stay over Sunday with his parents.

urday.

The special musical services given at the Baptist church Sunday evenings are very enjoyable and the attendance last night, considering the weather, was decidedly encouraging to Rev. Shaffer, who is working hard to give the people elevating entertainment that is really worth while. The church should be crowded next Sunday evening as doubtless it will be.

Henry Chamberlain and son, Ray, and family, have returned from Alexandria, South Dakota, and will move into the Kelly house on West Cross street. Ray Chamberlain will again enter the employ of the Peerless Poultry Plant people.

W. A. Mayhew was home from Madison, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Newell and daughter of Des Moines, Ia., arrived Saturday, called here by the serious illness of Mrs.
Newell's sister, Mrs. James L. Hong-borne.

Allurements for Recruits.
Mr. Haldane has done a good deal for the private soldier, but he cannot offer recruits such inducements as those set forth in the Times of September 25, 1901. Those willing to join the light dragoons are informed that they "will be mounted on the finest horses in the world, with superb clothing, and the richest accoutrements; your pay and privileges are equal to two galleons a week; you are everywhere respected; your society is courted; you are admired by the fair, which, together with the chance of getting switched to a buxom widow or brushing with a rich heiress, renders the situation truly enviable and desirable. Young men out of employment or otherwise uncomfortable:
"There is a tide in the affairs of men which, if taken at the flood, leads to fortune." Nick it, and instantly apply to the above."—London Chron.

Much or Little?
The new maid seemed eminently satisfactory, but the mistress of the house thought a few words of advice would be just as well. "And remember," she concluded, "that I expect you to be very reticent about what you hear when you are waiting at table." "Certainly, madam, certainly," replied the treasure. But then her face lit up with an innocent enthusiasm. "May I ask, madam, if there will be much to be reticent about?"

Peculiar Clock Weight.
The most remarkable clock weight in Malpo is that of the Baptist church at Cherryfield, an old smooth-bore cannon. The old cannon was one of the old smooth-bore type and was brought by (Gleason R. Campbell from Boston on one of the return trips of lumber vessels.

Terrible Creature.
"Father," said the small boy, "is there any animal more terrible than a lion?" "Yes, my son; a cow. If you don't kicking you in the neck or pursuing you over the pasture to hook you, she's trying to send germs around to your house in the milk."

Her Advantage.
One advantage of being a woman is that she doesn't have to spend much of her time trying to give up injurious habits.

OBITUARY.

Richard Morris.
Shortly after eleven o'clock this morning death came to Richard Morris, who had been a resident of the county for nearly fifty years, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. F. Mc-Gee, on the Madison road, town of Janesville. His death came suddenly as the result of heart failure after only a few hours' illness. He was about Sunday apparently well complaining only of a slight cold. This morning, however, he was taken with shivering spells and passed away quietly shortly before noon.

Richard Morris was born in Carnarvonshire, Wales, on May 10th, 1827.
His early years were spent at his home there where he received his early education and training. When he was twenty-four years of age he came with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, to this country to seek his fortune here. He settled at Union, New York, where he stayed for about five years, when he came farther west, making his new home in this city where he has since resided. On March 13, 1870, he was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Davis, who preceded him in death seven years ago this month.

He was an industrious man, devoted to his family, and of a sunny temper-ment which made him a host of friends. He loved children and many kindnesses which he did for them endeared him to the hearts of the youngsters. He was one of the oldest members of the First Baptist church of this city and was a faithful and regular attendant until recent years when the infirmitas of age hindered him. Although he had to learn the English language after his coming to America, he was very fond of reading and was interested in current affairs up to the time of his death. Possessed of a remarkable memory he was fond of relating his boyhood experiences in his days long since gone by.

Since the death of his wife he had made his home with his daughters, three of whom survive him, Mrs. Benjamin Parikh and Mrs. P. F. McGee of the town of Janesville, and Mrs. E. S.
Butterfield of Sheboygan, Wis.; also one son, William Morris, of this city.
He is also survived by a younger brother, Robert, of Oconto, Wis., and a sister, Mrs. Anne Hughes, in Wales.
Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Mrs. Steve Wells.
Mrs. Steve Wells died at her home in Magnolia, yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the age of forty-eight years, following an illness of a week with measles. Lucy Isabelle Wood was born in Magnolia, November 7, 1863.
She became the wife of Steve Wells on Christmas day, 1882. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, three sons, Nelson, Lyle and Arthur of Magnolia, one sister, Mrs. Albert Gibbs of Evansville and a brother, Edward of North Magnolia. She was a member of the Methodist church and throughout her life has been a devoted Christian woman. The funeral arrangements are not known as yet, but interment will take place at Evansville.

James Hunter.
At half past four o'clock Saturday afternoon, death came to James Hunter at his home, 514 South Polk street, after an illness of several weeks with pneumonia. The deceased was nineteen years of age, being born in this city, Feb. 4, 1893. He received his education in the public schools of this city, and was rapidly making progress in the world's affairs. He was well liked by his associates and beloved by all who knew him.
He is survived by his mother, Mrs.
James Clifford; one brother, Albert Hunter; one sister, Isabel Hunter; and a half brother, Leroy Clifford. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at half past nine o'clock from St.
Patrick's church.

Ferdinand Schwanke.
Funeral services for the late Ferdinand Schwanke were held from the late home, 528 South Franklin street, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, and from St. Paul's Lutheran church at half past two. Rev. J. C. Koerner officiated and spoke of the virtues of the deceased and words of comfort to the sorrowing wife and relatives. The pallbearers were, John Lemke, John Heller, W. S. Phillips, C. J. Schottle, Carl Pabst, and Albert Grampe. The remains were laid at rest in the vault at Oak Hill cemetery.

SPLENDID CONCERT BY CREATORE BAND

Famous Italian Musical Organization Rendered Delightful Program At Theatre Yesterday.
Owing to a press notice sent out by a discharged manager that Francesco Creatore's famous Italian band had disbanded the audience which attended the famous leader yesterday afternoon and evening were small ones. They made up in appreciation however, what it lacked in numbers.
The storm which began some time before the afternoon performance no doubt deterred many music lovers from attending the concert.

Signor Creatore professed his program with the statement that a recent disagreement with the management had resulted in a number of musicians leaving the band and reducing its numbers from thirty-five pieces to seventeen. However, his best soloists had not deserted him, as was quite evident later in several of the solo renditions.

It was equally clear that the shortage of musicians in no way detracted from the great leader's power to wield the baton and his skill in wedding the individual instruments into one expressive whole; and it is safe to say that no one would miss the absent instruments in any selection unless he were thoroughly familiar with band "instrumentation." In fact, the musicians were so imbued with the enthusiasm of their leader that in no number could any instrument be missed nor could one desire to add anything.
With this material which includes some of the best soloists in the country, and with such a leader, this organization will no doubt soon reach its former proportions.

Worthy of notice in the Signor's graciousness in the rendition of en-cores. Every number was heartily applauded and an encore was promptly forthcoming. "The 'Migra' Chorus" from "Tannhauser," taking all the energies of leader and players alike, was an especially generous encore and was a number highly appreciated by the audience, rendered after the exquisite arias of "O Thou Sublime, Sweet Evening Star," a baritone solo from the same opera.

Mlle. Poloni assisted very ably in the program. The flute-like soprano voice, soft and sweet, penetrated to every corner of the house and to the heart of each of the delighted hearers.
The afternoon program consisted of the following numbers and encores:
Overture, "William Tell," Rossini;
encore, "Every Little Movement"; Cornet solo, "Infantaria," from "Stabat Mater," Rossini; encore, "Serenade" Schubert; Idyl, "Glow Worm," Linche.
Sextette, "Sextette from Lucia"; encore Medley of Patriotic Airs, Intermission. Overture, "Poet and Penman," Suppe. Soprano solo, "All I Ask of You, Is Love," encore, Gennelli air, Baritone solo, "O, Thou Sublime, Sweet Evening Star," Wagner; encore,
"Migra' Chorus," Wagner. Duet,
"Alacore" from "Il Trovatore," Verdi. Overture, "Donner's Ills No. 7," Star Spangled Banner.

THEATRE

The "Sweetest Girl in Paris" is the new production of the La Salle Opera House, Chicago, which is being presented in the high value of good other if his memorable creations in stage-managers, even for the frivolous recent years was that of the aged form of entertainment commonly Confederate soldier, General Warren, called "musical comedy." For "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," which he will show here on Friday, Feb. 10, at the Myers Theatre, Mr. Askin has engaged two of the foremost stage managers in the world.

One Schlick is one of them. He has more real successes to his credit than any other stage director of musical comedy in the last ten years. It was Schlick's skill that first made the LaSalle famous as a theatre, where chorine ideas were something more than merely pretty. The people out side of the large cities, and especially that wonderful number in which he staged "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," with its novelty of the Broomstick Witch, and other old-time songs, proved that he was the originator. "A Knight for a Day," "The Three Twines" and "A Broken Heart" are all Schlick productions, and small towns, it may seem that Charles each of them contained abundant. Schlick and Culin Davis, however of the "Sweetest Girl in Paris," worked together, and in framing the dialogue on the great novelty of "The Three Twines," which he has put into the mouths of the famous "Yama-Yama" his characters. But to those who have some little knowledge of experience, of the ways of the big town, stage manager for "The Sweetest Girl in Paris." He hardly needs an introduction to American theatre-going public, and he is not only a superb actor, but a superb manager.

MAIL SHAKEUP IS DUE

HITCHCOCK ANGRY; REORGANIZATION OF SERVICE POSSIBLE.

Burdens Are Placed on Railway Employees by Orders Issued Without Postmaster General's Knowledge

Washington, Feb. 6.—A condition of inefficiency, insubordination and mismanagement has been developed in the operation of the railway mail service that is likely to result in an upheaval in and perhaps a reorganization of the entire service.

Postmaster General Hitchcock is incensed over the situation as it has been disclosed, and he makes no concealment of his indignation.

For a considerable time he has been conducting a personal investigation into the operations of the railway mail service. His inquiry is not concluded yet, but the facts developed indicate plainly that its results are likely to be drastic.

Rumors reached here from several points that changes in officers of the railway mail service were imminent. Mr. Hitchcock expressed himself as much dissatisfied with the management of the railway mail service, particularly in respect to the personnel of the service.

His investigation, he indicated, had disclosed the fact that orders had been issued by subordinate officers placing upon the employees unreasonable burdens, in some instances humiliating burdens. These orders were promulgated in the name of the postmaster general, although he knew nothing about them.

Mr. Hitchcock said the only changes in the status of the railway mail clerks was caused by an effort of the department to effect a reasonable readjustment of hours of service, so as to equalize the hours throughout the country.

MOODY JUBILEE IS BEGUN

Silver Anniversary of Founding of Bible Institute Attracts Many Notable Men to Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—A week's celebration of the silver anniversary of the founding of the Moody Bible Institute began yesterday and has brought to Chicago a large number of leading evangelists and other religious workers. The religious program of the morning was conducted by Bishop John H. Vincent, Bishop Charles Edward Cheney, Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman and others, and in the afternoon well-known laymen from various cities related reminiscences of Dwight L. Moody. The music for the week is under the direction of Dr. D. B. Townner.

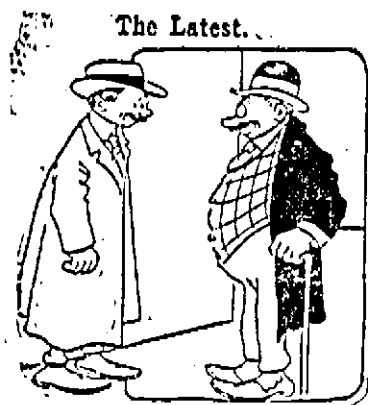

A feature of the celebration is a large paper-mache map of Palestine made from 500 Chicago newspapers by Rev. E. A. Marshall, who is preparing a missionary museum. The map is made in relief and is 12 feet high. Its weight is about 1,000 pounds.

During the celebration a new dormitory for women, constructed at a cost of $200,000, will be dedicated. Invitations have been sent to 6,000 graduates of the institute, scattered throughout the world. Many are leading preachers and teachers and a large number are missionaries.

A CITY'S DIVIDEND.

Writers all over the country are constantly discussing the question of model cities. The latest phase of the question is "A Dividend Paying City" as brought forth by the following editorial in the Christian Science Monitor.

"Here is the proposition in a nutshell: A number of people get together and found a settlement. Their energy and enterprise attracts others, and the settlement soon becomes a village. Because the people are alive and alert the village soon becomes a town, then a city, then a great city. The older and larger it becomes the heavier the taxes its original founders must bear. They have opened up a thousand opportunities for the later comers. Why should not these pay, and pay well, for the privileges they enjoy? Instead of a city being a constant burden upon its inhabitants, why could it not be made a profit-sharing concern?"

"In the establishment and growth of private business institutions, growth means progress and profit. In the establishment and growth of a community of people, growth means increased obligations for those who have done the building. William Dudley Poultice, touching on the matter, said recently: 'If I own a cheap lot in a remote suburb, and do nothing with it; but the city expands in that direction, and folks build all around me, this adds to its value many times. I have done nothing myself to make it worth any more, but the folks who have built around me have done it. Yet I get the increased value which I have not earned, and the city whose growth gave the value gets nothing, except a trifling tax from year to year.'

"This is only one illustration. Scores might be added. The community has privileges to offer; at present it gives them away, and taxes itself enormously that it may be able to do so. Business principles applied to the granting of privileges of various kinds would soon turn the city deficit into a city surplus. No injustice would result from a system that would compel each and every person enjoying communal advantages to share in the cost of supplying them, because this system would work for the reduction of the general tax.

"A dividend-paying city is not an idle dream. It seems impossible only because we have become habituated to the debt-ridden, tax-ridden city. We accept this kind of communal government as we do many other things, simply because we have never known, and have never striven hard for, something better."

MISTAKEN IDEAS.

For many years there has been an endeavor on the part of men who are most interested in the checking of tuberculin diseases, in both cattle and men, to have suitable laws passed which might ultimately do away with the dread disease that is a menace to the present generation in its various forms. The last legislature, that of 1909, passed a very wise law demanding the testing of all cattle by the tuberculin methods with a view of stamping out the disease in the herds throughout the country. While this work has been going on for several years it has come into more prominence recently through the enforcement of this law. Of course there has been objection to the law, objection to the testing of the cattle for tubercular trouble and breeders and butchers have bitterly opposed it. However, it is a step in the right direction and while the stamping out of the disease is the ultimate end it should be rigidly enforced. The following clipping from an exchange takes the opposite view of the question and believes the law is useless. Its arguments are groundless and it is merely the claptrap talk of the enemies of the law who seek only their own personal profit regardless of the requirements of the public or the safety of the children, who drink milk from tubercular cows or the consumers of tubercular beef cattle. The law is all right and should be strengthened as much as possible. The exchange takes the matter up in the following manner:

"The Lake Mills Leader calls attention to the investigation made in Illinois last month by a committee appointed to learn the truth about the tuberculin test for dairy cattle. The commission visited the St. Charles Home for Boys where a herd of grade Holsteins are kept to furnish milk and butter for the 500 boys of the institution. They found a model barn, clean, well ventilated and lighted and the cattle and their product handled with the greatest care, but when investigation was made into the record of the herd as to tuberculosis, a strange condition of things was revealed.

"The herd had been in use three years and when started every cow passed the test under the supervision of the state veterinarian. Six months after, at the second test, 13 were condemned. The whole herd was then abandoned and a new one secured and passed the test. At the next test 3 were condemned and removed and their places filled with others that had passed the test. At the next test 3 were condemned and replaced by others. The next test condemned 31 out of 32 in the herd and instead of removing them kept them in defiance of law and they are now among the finest and best cows in the herd with no signs of feebleness or lack of milk supply or appetite.

"Another test of a fine large Holstein and repeated four times, the first two times she stood the test, the third time she failed and was condemned but not destroyed. Six months after, the fourth test pronounced her all right. In due time the fifth test was made and again she was accused of having tuberculosis. There were visits to other herds and records of test seem to be as flimsy as at the boys' home and the conclusion of the investigators seemed to be that they thought the tuberculin test comes very near to being a humbug, that the reaction when the test is made is from other cause, largely, than tuberculosis. Some of the most experienced, who had carefully watched and tried the merits of the test, did not hesitate to say that tuberculin has killed more cows than tuberculosis."

Evidently the writer has never been in the big slaughter pens in Milwaukee where the Wisconsin cattle that are suffering from the disease are killed and examined. One visit there should convince the most skeptical that cattle whose udders are diseased in the manner those killed there are found to be, can neither furnish good milk for drinking purposes or even good beef for eating.

Before that new capital building is even half way finished the law-makers of the state find that they are not going to have room enough for the departments of state and the legislature. Consequently we may expect an appropriation of a few more millions for this purpose.

This storm will not put even a damper upon any of the political aspirants for office. It takes more than snow to quench some of the men who seek to be aldermen or mayors.

Governor McGovern has given the state board of agriculture a new lease of life by putting new members into the field with instructions to make a fair that Wisconsin will be proud of.

The state legislature promises to be a busy place and that hundred day session will last out six months if all the bills proposed are even given a careful consideration.

This is a small world after all and one of the first efforts of the sheriff's office in tracing stolen horses was crowned with success.

Golden weddings are quite the fashion in Rock county just at present. It speaks well for the community where so many are held.

Penny may not be promoted to a rear admiralship after all. There is still some doubt as to that North Pole discovery after all.

It takes more than a common snow storm to stop the rejuvenated street car company from running its cars.

This snow should give the unemployed in the cities plenty of work for at least twenty-four hours.

Throughout the world he's viewed with scorn, and so he says: "I'll toot my horn, and print a mile or two of rot, explaining that I really thought I'd found the Pole, until I woke, DOC and found the whole thing was COOK A JOKE. I can't endure," says Dr. Cook, "the cold, disgusted, scornful look of those I meet, who whispered 'shame!' and talk about a bumco game, and say I'd prove I had some worth by falling off the weary earth. Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TRY IT.

When you wake up tomorrow morning say to yourself:

"This will be a good day."

Say it to yourself as you put on your clothes, as you sit down to breakfast, as you go to the store or shop or field or stay in the house.

At first you may scarcely believe it, but keep saying it just the same. Because it is true.

Today is really the best day you have ever lived. Yesterday cannot be so good a day, because it is gone, nor tomorrow, because you are not sure of it.

And if you will keep saying so it will be a good day, because your enjoyment of it will depend upon your attitude toward it.

Call it auto-suggestion or what you may, you can shape your day largely by the way you treat it.

If you begin by saying that you will spoil your day, if you persist in deploring what you did or failed to do yesterday or if you continually fear what may happen tomorrow you will spoil it.

But, you say, there are real troubles in the world that may mar one's enjoyment of his day.

Surely. But much depends upon how you meet your troubles. You can meet them with a smile or scowl at them. You may lie down in front of them and whine, or in most cases you may jump plumb over them.

Much depends on your spirit. It is certain you cannot solve your troubles by grumbling about them or shrinking from them, but it is also certain you may spoil your day by shrinking and grumbling.

Besides, if you will take a fresh mental grip on things when you begin your day many of your troubles will vanish. They are mostly creatures of your fancy. They do not really exist except in your mind.

And when the day is gone be sure you do not spoil it by thinking of what you failed to do, but upon what you did do, and you will find much to be thankful for.

And tomorrow?

Why, when you close your eyes thinking how good the day has been, say to yourself:

"Tomorrow will be a better day. And tomorrow will be better."

ILLINOIS VICTIM OF LAND GRABBERS

Legislative Committee Say State Defrauded of Millions.

ACCUSE MANY CORPORATIONS

Thousands of Acres of Water Fronts Are Alleged to Have Been Grabbed.—All Can Be Reclaimed.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6.—The people of Illinois have been defrauded of land valued at from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000. Of this 1,816 acres lie along the lake shore from South Chicago to Waukegan and 1,087 are within the limits of the city of Chicago.

The Illinois Central railroad alone has grabbed 400 acres in the city's front yard and the attorney general should sue to recover its value and perhaps revoke the company's charter. The Chicago river has been clogged on illegally from end to end by great corporations and business houses.

Report Is Exhaustive.

There are a few of the conclusions reached by the Chilperfield committee which was appointed by the Forty-sixth general assembly to investigate submerged lands in the state. After almost two years of exhaustive labor the committee has compiled its report, which consists of 16 large typewritten volumes and which is accompanied by two massive chests filled with maps, photographs, documents and records dating back to Indian days.

Hard statements and verbiage charges are not relied on by the committee to support the truth of their findings. With all the care of expert lawyers preparing a case for court the legal questions involved have been gone into and hundreds of pages in the report consist of supreme court decisions, legislative enactments and what amounts practically to complete legal briefs.

Land Can Be Reclaimed.

And with no heating around the bush or technical equivocation, the committee makes the unqualified statement that the reclaimed empire stolen from the people can be recovered. Strong recommendation is made that proceedings be started immediately.

So comprehensive is the report in the belief of lawyers who have seen it that that ordinary member of the bar could walk into court with it under his arm and turn the state of Illinois upside down.

Allusion is made to "the amazing indifference by the city of Chicago on this subject, which has deprived the people of wonderful opportunities to obtain places of resort and recreation for public purposes that other cities might easily have been theirs."

"Chicago up to this time," the report continues, "has deliberately thrown away its opportunities in this direction and to a very surprising degree is absolutely indifferent as to whether or not any reclamation of these lands can be made."

Illinois Central Accused.

Discussion of the Illinois Central includes this:

"It is a history which reads like a romance as to how the Illinois Central starting in with a strip of 200 feet in width from the city limits northward has continued to grasp and extend until now substantially 400 acres of the most valuable land of the city of Chicago are in its possession."

"When the achievements in this direction of this company are considered it makes the choicest depredations of Captain Kidd look like an amateur performance."

"Without question it has allowed commercial considerations of gain and profit in the making and selling of lands to influence its course and to direct its policy. It has not carried out the provisions of its charter. It has not dealt in good faith with the people of the state of Illinois and in the opinion of this committee its charter is subject to revocation."

Grab Estimated at Quarter Billion.

No total estimate of the value of the stolen lands is set forth in the report, but Representative Chilperfield has figured that the committee traced filled land grabbed from the people of a total value of a quarter of a billion. The committee only had a $15,000 appropriation to work on, however, and Chairman Chilperfield and his colleagues believe that if they could have followed the leads at hand they would have unearthed at least $500,000,000 in grabs.

Chilperfield spent $5,000 of his own money compiling the report. In addition to the gigantic Chicago seizures thousands of grabbed acres were found in various sections of the state—river land, slough land, lake land, dock property and hunting preserves.

The greatest offender outside Chicago is held to be the Virginia Ferry company at East St. Louis, and the Cairo Trust company is accused of having squatted on the entire river front at Cairo. Numerous offenders were found on the Desplaines, Illinois, Mississippi, Ohio and Wabash rivers. The Pullman company and the Knickerbocker ice company at the southern end of Chicago are in the list of alleged illegal holders.

PLAN FOR HONDURAS PEACE.

Armistice May Be Agreed Upon Through Good Offices of the United States.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Gen. Manuel Bonilla, the leader of the revolution in Honduras, in all probability will agree to an armistice within a few days and accept the mediation of the United States to bring to an end the revolution which has rent the little republic asunder.

This information was conveyed to the state department in a wireless telegram from Commander Davis of the American gunboat Tacoma. He reported that he had interviewed the revolutionary leader at Celba, Honduras, and proposed an armistice. In reply, Commander Davis said, he had received the understanding that General Bonilla would agree to an armistice in a few days.

One instrument of cleanliness found in a first-class laundry is a rubber eraser. "That is needed to rub the pencil marks from cuffs," said the manager. DID ASSAILANTS TRY TO KILL O. N. COON SATURDAY?

ELLSWORTH TEN EYCK IS SEVERELY INJURED BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANTS.

NEPHEW WAS BADLY INJURED

Was Set Upon and Beaten With Club by Two Men Near Uncle's Home—Is in Critical Condition.

Much mystery surrounds the attack made on Saturday night, or early Sunday morning, by two unknown assailants upon Ellsworth Ten Eyck, aged 25, a nephew of O. N. Coon, who resides some four miles east of the city on the Milwaukee road, in the Mt. Zion district. The young man was badly beaten with a club which broke two ribs and after falling was again struck repeatedly until insensible. It appears that Ten Eyck, who lives with his uncle, heard a noise outside the house shortly after twelve Saturday night and upon going out to investigate was struck by an assailant who sprang upon him from round the corner of the house. The blow was of sufficient weight to break two ribs, causing one of the bones to penetrate his lung, causing a most dangerous wound. He was then set upon by a second man who beat him over the head and back until insensible.

Mr. Coon was in Edgerton on the night in question and there were only women at the house. Upon the failure of young Ten Eyck to return indoors a half hour later a search was made and he was found insensible. Dr. Edgerton was hastily summoned and attended the Coon home in time to save the young man's life.

After dressing the wound Dr. Edgerton made an investigation of the premises and found the club used and also the muddy footprints of two men running away from the vicinity of the house. They had evidently waited to learn the results of the attack. Today Ten Eyck is still in a critical condition with chances against his recovery if any complications set in.

Inquiry at the Coon home by telephone gives no definite news of the attack except that one was made. Mr. Coon refuses to answer any questions beyond stating the matter is being investigated and that he has his suspicions as to who indicated the attack and fired the two shots. Every effort possible is being made to learn the matter. The attack was reported to both Sheriff Ransom and Chief of Police Appleby Sunday morning and the two departments, police and sheriff's office, are working together on the case.

It has been learned that Mr. Coon and some of his near relatives have had considerable controversy as to the ownership of the farm he now occupies. This has led to the theory that the matter may perhaps be a family feud or some attempt of a personal enemy of Mr. Coon to reach him directly.

It is also learned that for several nights previous to Saturday peculiar noises were heard near the Coon home by Mr. Coon, but not investigated. It is possible that the two assailants had thought to attack the owner of the place and not Ten Eyck.

O. N. Coon is one of the pioneer tobacco raisers in the county and has long been prominent in this industry. He is well known throughout the county, has many friends and relatives in this city. Mrs. Mole, who owns the Mole Grove up the river, is a sister of his.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Organization Will Have Annual Meeting Feb. 8th and W. H. Mylrea Of Waukegan Will Speak.

Honorable W. H. Mylrea of Waukegan, former Attorney General of the State of Wisconsin, will be the guest of the Commercial and Mercantile Club at its annual meeting next Wednesday night, February 8th, and will address the Club on the work of the Wisconsin Advancement Association. This is the first time that the Commercial Club has been so honored. The purpose of the Wisconsin Advancement Association is to bring about a better understanding of the state of Wisconsin, especially with a view to getting settlers in those parts of the state which are at present but thinly settled. Mr. Mylrea is a member of the executive committee of this association and one of its most enthusiastic advocates. He has been speaking throughout Wisconsin on this subject to various commercial and business men's associations and has in every case been warmly received and has felt that the citizens of Jansville will be greatly interested in.

In addition to his address, the Club will on that night listen to reports of the president and of the chairman of the various standing committees and of the special auditing committee which has examined the Club's income and expense account for the past year.

The meeting will be called together promptly at 7:30 and it is desired that every member of the Club or subscriber to the articles of the association be present to listen to these reports, and to elect a board of directors for the new year.

HAS JANSVILLE MAN BEEN ARRESTED IN PITTSBURG, PENN?

Reports From Smoky City Says Theatrical Manager Is in Custody Claiming Jansville As Home.

According to a dispatch from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Clarence Burdick, or Earl Doty, as he is known to the stage profession, whose home is at 22 South Franklin street in this city, and who has been acting as manager for the Gayety Amusement Co., was arrested on Sunday on the charge of demanding with funds belonging to the company. Ten Chicago girls, members of the company, who had been hungry since Tuesday, hunted him down and had him dragged from a Chicago train.

As Earl Doty, Mr. Burdick made quite a name for himself as an actor and for the past few years he has acted as a theatrical manager, having had various companies on the road. He was in Jansville last in November of 1910, and left here to go to Milwaukee where his company was to open. Several years ago he was manager of the West Side theatre when it first opened.

Yesterday Mr. Burdick was to settle the matter up at once or the charges were unfounded as the following dispatch received by the Gazette this afternoon in answer to a request as to what had actually occurred sent to Chief of Police Thomas McQuade of Pittsburgh.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 6, 1911.

MAN WHO STOLE RIG TAKEN AT KILBOURN

Joseph Dinger, Wanted for Stealing Rig and Horse From Shopkeeper, Nabbed at Kilbourn.

Clerk at the part of Sheriff Ransom and undersheriff John Comstock was responsible for the holding of the county jail here last night. Joseph Dinger, wanted for stealing a horse and buggy from the farm of William Thuesen in the town of Turtle, last Monday night, Dinger was taken yesterday morning at Kilbourn by the undersheriff and brought here last night, where he will be kept until tomorrow, at which time he will be brought before either Judge Fifield of the municipal court or Judge Ross of Beloit.

Dinger, who is about twenty years old, and who lives in the town of Turtle, made away with the horse and rig belonging to Thuesen some time Monday night. The latter had a suspicion regarding the identity of the thief and immediately notified the sheriff of his loss and also whom he suspected. It was thought that the offender had taken the road south and consequently, the undersheriff was sent to Harvard to investigate and the country thereabouts was flooded with reward cards.

On Thursday, Charles Hancke, who resides about five miles east of this city, reported to the sheriff that Dinger had arrived at his house Monday night with the outfit in question and had stayed over night. Hancke said that he had declared his intention of going to Kilbourn to visit a sister who lived there and had left Tuesday morning for that place, intending to go by way of Port Atkinson. Upon learning this undersheriff Comstock immediately set out for the latter place where he learned that Dinger had disposed of the stolen outfit in that city, realizing forty dollars on the deal. He also learned that he had taken a train for there for Kilbourn. The undersheriff arrived in Kilbourn Saturday night and after a few investigations found that his man was in the city. Sunday morning Dinger was found in Stanton's pool hall and taken into custody. He was brought here last night and is now awaiting his hearing which will probably be held tomorrow.

Dedrick Bros.STORM IS GENERAL THROUGHOUT STATS; TRAINS ARE LATE

Struck Jansville Sunday Afternoon—Several Inches of Snow Fell Rapidly.

Jansville was visited by the most severe fall of snow for the present winter Sunday afternoon and evening. The storm started with regular blizzards Tuesday and continued until early Monday morning. In many places the drifts were four and five feet deep and the wind blowing piled the white up in huge drifts, covering roads and outbuildings.

Trains on the Northwestern road from both the north and the south were late this morning. St. Paul trains did not seem to be so badly affected, but most of them were late. At neither of the stations were there any reports of any serious trouble, but it is thought that if the strong wind keeps up, trouble is liable to be suspended in some places. The mail from the east, due in here at midnight, did not arrive until about six o'clock this morning, and at ten o'clock the mails from the northwest had not yet been heard from. Up until noon no word had been received here of any serious trouble being encountered by the rural carriers.

In Milwaukee.
Milwaukee, Feb. 6.—With this section, and according to reports to the entire state with the exception of the extreme northern part, in the grasp of a raging snow storm, the local government weather bureau does not promise relief until Tuesday. All trains are reported from thirty minutes to two hours late.

At Chicago.
Chicago, Feb. 6.—A terrible snow and sleet storm which Saturday started in the Rocky Mountains, today swept eastward as far as Buffalo, blocking railway traffic, demoralizing telephone and telegraph systems and causing great property loss all over the north and middle west. From 6 to 12 inches of snow have fallen in Nebraska, Iowa and northern Illinois.

At Davenport.
Davenport, Iowa, Feb. 6.—Heavy snow had piled up the street railway traffic and delayed railroad trains for hours.

In Burlington.
Burlington, Vt., Feb. 6.—A blizzard raged here the past twenty-four hours including all kinds of traffic. Six inches of snow fell.

Typical Family of Maine.
One of Maine's old-fashioned families is that of Capt. Uzal P. Candage and wife of South Bluehill. They have been married 35 years. They have nine children—seven boys and two girls—three daughters-in-law, one son-in-law and ten grandchildren, making 25 in all. There has never been a death in the family and all are well.

No Half-Clad Hope.
If we were a sculptor we wouldn't use a woman half clad, with yearning eyes fixed upwards, as a figure of "Hope"; a better illustration would be a man with overalls on, who has planted garden seeds, and is looking to see if the neighbors' chickens intend to let them come up.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

APPARATUS FOR THE CHIEF'S AUTO HERE

Fire Extinguisher Equipment Arrived This Morning and Will Be Put on Machine at Once.

The equipment for the automobile recently purchased by the city for the chief of the fire department arrived this morning from Chicago, and the firemen at the West Side station set about the work of placing the apparatus on the machine. It is expected that it will be in place and ready for use in case of a fire by Wednesday. The equipment, which was made by the Chicago Fire Apparatus company, consists of a twenty-five gallon heavy copper tank, in line; receptacle and bottles for holding the acid, brass by-passes, a reducer for reducing a five-inch stream to garden hose size, a five-sixteenth-inch nozzle, and a wire basket for carrying one hundred and fifty feet of rubber hose. The hose has not yet arrived here. The hose has not yet arrived but has been shipped from the factory. The entire outfit when placed on the machine with the tank filled and charged, will weigh between five hundred and fifty and six hundred pounds. The hose connections on the new apparatus are interchangeable with those on the wagon used by the fire police.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen: Your Committee No. 12, Roads and Bridges, reports as follows:

On the bridge in the town of Plymouth, Sec. 10, on Bass Creek near Hanover, your Committee met the Town Board of Plymouth on the 26th day of June, 1909, canvassed the situation and notified the leading bridge companies that we would meet on July 15th to let contract for building said bridge. We met on said date and awarded the contract for concrete abutments to H. S. Wetherell of Chicago for four hundred and thirty dollars ($430) and the superstructure of iron work with concrete floor to W. E. Gifford of Madison representing the Elkhardt Bridge & Iron Company of Indiana, for the sum of one thousand one hundred and eleven dollars ($1,111). The approaches cost two hundred and thirty-one dollars ($231), making the entire cost of said bridge one thousand seven hundred and eighty-two dollars ($1,782).

On July 15th, 1910, we met the Town Board of Plymouth, examined the bridge and accepted it, and ordered the County Clerk to issue orders for the County's share of expense, viz, eight hundred and eighty-six dollars ($886), all of which is respectfully submitted.

Signed by committee.

N. M. GLEASON, ELI CRALL, JOHN SHELMAN.

Adopted.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen: Your Committee appointed by the Chairman of this Board to co-operate with the Town Board of Turtle in building bridge on Turtle Creek, Sec. 20, beg leave to report as follows:

After consulting with the Board of the Town of Turtle we advertised for bids and set a day for letting contract for said bridge. We met at the site of proposed bridge on day set. After receiving bids we awarded contract for one concrete abutment to B. L. Boyle, for the sum of one thousand and seventy-four dollars ($1,074) and the superstructure of iron work to J. A. McElroy, for the sum of three thousand five hundred and sixty dollars ($3,560.00). It was necessary to construct a temporary bridge at the expense of thirty-six dollars ($36.00). Some additional work had to be done on abutment before the superstructure could be placed in position for which the County committee allowed thirty dollars for its share, also three dollars and thirty cents ($3.30) for advertising for bids, making the total cost of bridge four thousand seven hundred and ninety-three dollars and thirty cents ($4,793.30). County's one-half expense two thousand three hundred and ninety-six dollars and sixty-six cents ($2,396.65).

May 12th, 1910, we met to examine bridge, accepted same and ordered the County Clerk to issue county orders to the respective parties for sum due to such parties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Signed by committee.

N. M. GLEASON, ELI CRALL, JOHN SHELMAN.

Adopted.

You Must See the Maxwell Before You Buy

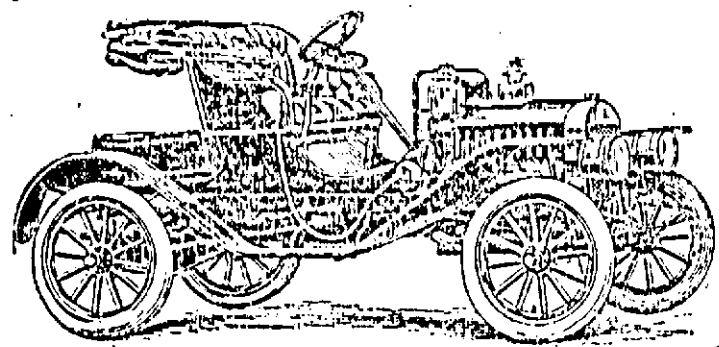

Special Attention Has Been Given This Year to the Design of Maxwell Bodies--You Cannot Describe Fine Lines, Luxurious Upholstery and Complete Appointments--

You Should See the MAXWELL

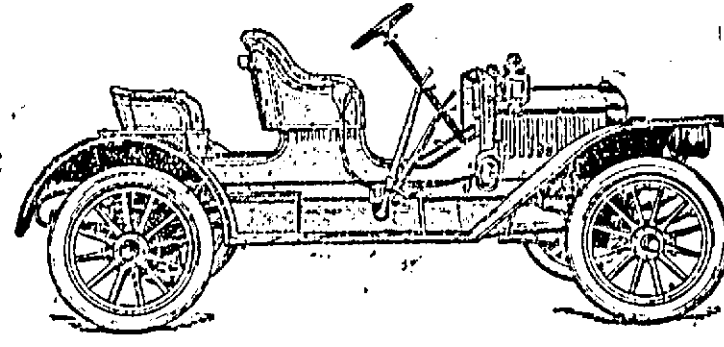

Cheaper to Keep Than a Horse and Buggy

Maxwell Construction Generally Adopted

Consider the saving in time; 15 minutes a day is all that is required to fill it with oil, gasoline, etc. Compare this with the time taken to feed, groom and harness a horse. Anyone can drive the Maxwell with half an hour's practice. Every principle used in the Maxwell is found on one or more of the higher priced cars. For example--the Maxwell engine is water-cooled by the thermo-siphon system, the same as the Renault, one of the costliest French cars. In the Maxwell are the same unit construction and three point suspension as will be found in the Napier and Motobloc, famous French and English machines. The Maxwell was the first to use the metal multiple disc clutch--now generally adopted here and abroad. Everyone may not be familiar with these mechanical facts, but we give them to show that when you buy a Maxwell you get a car that is not only the result of nine years of experience, but reflects the best judgment of the ablest European engineers.

COMPARE THE MAXWELL WITH ANY CAR REGARDLESS OF PRICE

Do this and we are content. Compare the Maxwell car side by side with the car that now appeals to you. It makes no difference what the price is. Make your comparison line for line, feature for feature, point for point. Then by a personally conducted demonstration, compare the relative power, speed, flexibility and control--note the comparative riding qualities of each. Simply do this and you will have sold yourself a Maxwell.

EVERY FARMER SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE MAXWELL AUTOMOBILE

The Maxwell will do your work better and at less cost than any other automobile. A careful study was made of the problems that confront the farmer as an automobile user and several models of the Maxwell are the result. For Strength, Simplicity and Reliability the Maxwell stands supreme for farm use. I want to impress upon you that the Maxwell is not a fad or a racing machine, but a sound, trouble proof automobile--just the car you need for yourself and family. The Maxwell costs little to keep, is simple to drive, runs smoothly and has great reserve power for hills and heavy roads. With this car you can enjoy the beauty of your country--be independent of distance--visit your friends both near and far and have at all times a ready means of access to or from town. Let me send you the 1911 Booklet. No matter what car you have in mind, it will pay you to let me send it. You are under no obligation and the book costs you nothing. Drop me a line today.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

A WOMAN to whom I wrote the other day informed me very fairly in her response that I should have addressed her as Mrs. instead of Miss.

And another young woman objected even more vigorously because I sent her a letter addressed to Mr. E. R. Crane. Perhaps you think they both had some pretty good grounds for complaint. Wait a bit until the case for the plaintiff is heard. The first letter was signed Margaret L. Brown.

The second bore the even less illuminating signature of E. R. Crane.

In the first case I had absolutely no clue to the married or unmarried state of the writer.

In the second case my only clue to the sex was the handwriting which I wrongly as it turned out—diagnosed as masculine.

It is really astonishing, I am told by business men, how many women indulge in these particular brands of epistolary carelessness.

It may be that all the offenders are people who "know the right and yet do the wrong purpose," but in case there are others who are through ignorance, let me plainly set forth the very simple rules which should be followed by women writing to other than personal acquaintances.

If the woman be single, she should sign her name with the prefix "Miss" in parentheses before it, as:

Very truly yours,
(Miss) Lucy A. Doe.
(Mrs. Phillip Doe.)

If she be married, she should sign her own name with her husband's in parentheses beneath it, as:

To signify the married state by signing Mrs. Lucy A. Doe or Mrs. Phillip Doe is incorrect.

In endorsing and signing checks, and conducting business of any sort, a married woman should use her own name—that is, whatever part of her maiden name she has elected to keep, linked to her husband's surname. For instance, if her maiden name was Lucy Mend Atchinson, and she married Phillip Doe, she would sign, Lucy Mend Doe or Lucy Atchinson Doe, according to the name she had decided to keep.

All these things are trifles to be sure, but they are some of the many trifles the car in which the wheels of business and social life and makes things run smoothly for those about us.

The Kitchen Cabinet

It is more difficult and calls for higher energies of the soul to live a martyr than to die one.

House-Cleaning Time.
The up-to-date housekeeper does not make house cleaning a burden to her family or a torture to herself. She begins early enough to do things that may be done early, and when time is not so pressing.

An hour or so a day to go over drawers, desks and boxes will accomplish wonders in a few weeks' time, with no apparent effort. Here is where the systematizing of one's work will show.

There is so much that must of necessity be thrown away, but it seems a pity that good magazines and papers which would be a pleasure to many, should be burned.

Many good women are getting the addresses of women who live out on our prairies out of touch with so much that makes life worth living, and are sending them old magazines to read; this is true misanthropic work which costs so little, yet means much to poor people who love the things that are denied them.

Where there is an accumulation of papers and magazines, they may be sold or given where they will be sent to those who will use them.

By starting early with this work of looking over the household treasures, one has leisure to sort and arrange things in good order. When the cleaning time comes things are not then in a hurry-burry.

Have a large drawer in which are kept nice pieces of paper, both those and wrapping paper, string, ribbon and boxes of all sizes. Such a drawer will be a source of comfort, as it will always be in demand.

Keep in this drawer also little gifts that have been enjoyed and are ready to be passed on. One thrifty woman has a few little gifts all ready to give on occasions that are constantly arising.

One who has such a well-furnished drawer is always ready when called on for donations for the children's ward or the charity bazaar.

Have a tray for the soap fastened with rivets to the side of the scrub pail; it will pay for itself in soap in a short time.

Decoration of the Golden Rose.
While not precisely an order of chivalry or knighthood the Golden Rose is a decoration bestowed by the Pope on those whom they wish to honor. It is formed of wrought gold, and is blessed by the Pope on the fourth Sunday in Lent. The rose is inscribed with balsam, fumed with incense, and sprinkled with milk, and is placed on the altar during mass. The golden rose is usually presented to a Catholic prince or princess as a token of papal esteem, with an appropriate form of words. The custom of bestowing this decoration appears to have originated about the thirteenth century. Among the recipients have been Henry VIII (who received it three times), Mary of England, Maria Teresa, Napoleon III, and Isabella II of Spain. The golden rose is one of the most ancient of our decorations, and is much valued by its recipients.

Alcohol from Potatoes.

MADE WITH MOLASSES

VARIOUS GOOD FOOD ARTICLES IN WHICH IT IS USED.

Directions for the Making of Gingerbread, Pudding, Pie, Muffins and Parfait Cake With This Wholesome Cane Product.

Molasses and golden syrup are such easily obtained and cheap commodities that the housewife, ignorant of their enormous value in the food world, is often given to looking slightly upon them. No better food exists than this pure product of the sugar cane.

From a chemical point of view honey is a very wholesome and valuable food. But syrup is as valuable. It is in nature really a kind of honey.

Honey is composed of three different kinds of sugar, a mixture of cane sugar, which crystallizes; a fruit sugar, which does not candy at all, and of invert sugar, a compound of the two.

Cookery supplies many ways of using it. As gingerbread, in taffy, plain in a pretty molasses plicher, to be used in bread like honey, or eaten abundantly as an accompaniment of milk puddings of all kinds, it may be used.

Bolled molasses puddings are liked, so are butter puddings eaten with syrup. With bolled rice it goes well and also with blanc mange. If oatmeal is the dish molasses accompanies it as a sweetening agent splendidly, and, in this case, corrects the slightly binding action of a most excellent food.

The richness of mincemeat and plum puddings is due to molasses greatly, and molasses pies are very good.

Gingerbread.—Beat three-quarters of a pound of flour into a basin, add half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, one teaspoonful of ground ginger, one teaspoonful of allspice, a little grated nutmeg and half a teaspoonful of ground cinnamon. Melt together in a saucepan, one cupful of molasses, a quarter of a pound of sugar, a quarter of a pound of butter and half a cupful of milk. Cool and add to dry ingredients with two well beaten eggs. Mix well, then pour into a buttered and floured cake tin. Bake slowly for three-quarters of an hour.

Molasses Pudding.—Beat together four ounces of butter and three ounces of sugar till quite creamy. Add one well beaten egg, three-quarters of a pound of molasses and gently fold in half a pound of sifted flour. Add as much slightly warmed milk as will be necessary to form the mixture into a soft consistency, then add one teaspoonful of ground ginger, and one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat all very well together, pour into a greased basin, or mold, cover with greased paper, and steam for three hours. Turn out on a hot platter and serve immediately.

Molasses Pie.—Beat the yolks of four eggs with one cupful of brown sugar, add one cupful of molasses and two teaspoonfuls of grated nutmeg, then add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two heaping teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed with three tablespoonfuls of cream, and the whites of the eggs stiffly beaten. Pour the mixture into two pie tins lined with pastry. Bake for 40 minutes. Heat up three whites of eggs stiffly, add one heaping tablespoonful of sugar and beat again, then spread over the top of pies, set in oven and brown.

Molasses Muffins.—Quarter cupful of molasses, three heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, three eggs, one-half a cupful of milk, one cupful of flour and three-fourths cupful of rye meal. Mix and add dry ingredients; add remaining ingredients; beat well. Drop from a spoon into smoking hot fat and fry to a golden color. Drain and serve.

Parfait Molasses Cakes.—Two ounces of butter, one pound of molasses, one pound of flour, one tablespoonful ground ginger, pearlash size of a nut, small pieces of alum. Melt the butter, add molasses, pour among flour, ginger, add pearlash and alum. Beat mixture till very smooth. Leave it to get cold, roll out thin, cut into long pieces and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

clean the outside of copper cooking utensils, care should be taken to avoid letting any fall on the tin lining of the pan. To clean the pan inside and out, by far the best method is to scrub it with soda, hot water and soap. The outside may then be polished with a rag dipped in vinegar.

Kidney Stew.
One beef kidney put on in cold water and let come to a boil. Then take it off and throw away the water, wash the kidney and put it on again. Do this four times, then all the blood will be out of it. Cut it up and take out all the veins and put it in some more fresh water and cook till tender—about four hours—and let the water cook down to a cupful, then season with salt and pepper, and if you like put in some curry powder or some vegetables and it will make a nice, cheap dish for a change.

Time by Paternosters.
There are parts of the Roman Catholic world where timepieces in any form are very few and far between, and the priests and their people measure any small period of time by going through some religious exercise. They will, for example, allow their tea to draw while they can repeat a "misereere" very slowly. In the same way some of the Protestant ministers of the Rhine province will measure the proper time for holding an egg by repeating the Lord's Prayer. In this country at one time it was a very common thing to speak of "my action or occurrence continuing" "for the space of a Paternoster."

SATAN'S SNARES IN JANESVILLE

WAS THE SUBJECT OF REV. T. D. WILLIAMS' SERMON LAST EVENING.

PUBLIC DANCE HALL EVIL

Is One of the Most Powerful of the Devil's Traps for Catching the Unwary.

Those who braved last night's storm to attend the Methodist church heard a strong sermon by Rev. T. D. Williams on the subject, "The Snares of the Devil in Janesville." It was the second of a series on the same question and in it he attacked the evils of the public dance hall as one of Satan's most potent forces in alluring young people to ways of wickedness. Rev. Williams spoke in part as follows:

"In last Sunday's sermon I spoke of the snare of gambling in our city and it may have been doubted by some that this evil existed at all here. But when that trouble has arisen at this very time proving that the Devil is at work in our city with the snare of gambling. The Devil takes no vacations, or if he does, he has so many associates that the work goes on just the same.

"This evening I wish to speak of the evil of the public dance hall. It is a snare where many innocent persons have been claimed as the Devil's victims. Satan knows how to put on his Sunday clothes and with the outward appearance of an angel deceive the unwary and when they are caught he holds their feet in a snare from which they are never freed.

"Once in my life I was upon the dance floor and before I got off I vowed I would never again be found in a like circumstance. It was at a gathering of a company of friends and someone had discovered a violin. The violin's music is heavenly and it is by such guises that the Devil deceives. But no sooner than its music started than everyone in the company began jumping up and down like so many jumping-jacks and I was finally persuaded to join them. But before once around the room I made my vow that my time was too valuable to be given over to such a thing which could not benefit in any way my soul, mind or body, but which was pure and simple one of the Devil's snares by which the unsuspecting are caught.

"Robert Burdette, the humorist, preacher, in speaking of the public dance and a Christian's dancing, said: 'Yes, a Christian may dance, a Christian may lie or swear, but it does not make him a better Christian. Dancing will never identify a person as a Christian.'

"In the city of Milwaukee they have been struggling to solve the problem of the public dance. They have been seeking to find some way by which the evils might be averted, by lessening the attending crowds, or by changing the place where they are held, or by many other ways. But the difficulties many other ways. In a recent raid fifty girls all under age were found without the protection of their parents, most of them in the company of older men and a large number under the influence of liquor.

"None can help but be degraded by the impure atmosphere of such places and it is here that many a young person starts on the downward course which ends in disaster and death. Three-fourths of the inmates of the houses of shame in New York City, it is estimated, traced their downfall to the public dance hall. Out of 260, 163 ascribed their condition to the same cause. It is a trap by which the Devil draws from every stage and condition, from all sections and classes of society. Even in Janesville this work is constantly going on. We are not far from Chicago where there are 8,000 girls living lives of shame and disgrace. Many of the houses boast of their elegance and there is one which brags that all its inmates are graduates of a well-known women's college in the east.

"We need to exercise all our foresight to prevent such conditions from arising in our own city. We need not soothe ourselves that the inmates of such places are there because they are compelled, for they are not. How do they get there? It is a matter of their own choice. They become corrupted by foul associations in the atmosphere most often of the public dance hall and from the first attendance there they go down and down, held in the snare, to ruin and disgrace.

"Among the girls returning from work on one of the streets of a certain of our cities one evening in December of 1891, was a tall and beautiful blonde. She had a sweet and lovely face and had been born and raised in a New England town. Her mother had died when she was young and her education and training had been left to her father. Her health became poor and it was necessary for her to go west. Sad was the parting, and little did they know that never again would they see each other.

"On the night in question among the ruffians on the corner watching the girls pass was a devotee of the public dance. He saw the beautiful girl and resolved to ensnare her. He watched her closely for several days. He went to the church which she attended but could not affect an acquaintance. Finally he secured the aid of a dancing master and through him the girl was persuaded to learn to dance, since her church did not object and since she secured the consent of her pastor.

"At the dancing school her downward path began. Here she met the man who had been following her and his constant attentions could not be thwarted. Finally he invited her to a public ball. At twelve they went to the dining hall. She was persuaded to drink the wine which flowed freely. The happenings of that night are too horrible, but when she awoke from her delirium she was in a strange room. She returned to her room at home, her purity gone, her heart aching. Her friends left her and in her agony she told her story to a friend and urged that it be used as a lesson to prevent young persons from like destruction. She died in shame and disgrace. The man continued to be one of the society men of the city, instead of being hung as a murderer. "This story tells its own tragic moral and may God help us as parents to protect our children from such an awful fate."

"FATHER AND THE BOYS" EXCELLENT

Ade's Comedy Pleases Good House. At Myers Grand Saturday Night—Turner A Hit.

Two good houses greeted the production of George Ade's new comedy, "Father and the Boys," at the Myers Grand, Saturday. Those who witnessed the excellent performance could well be satisfied that they had seen, not only one of the best of modern American comedies, but that the company of players was first class in every detail. It is a source of gratification to theatre-goers that the clever author, George Ade, has turned his efforts to this kind of work rather than continuing in the musical comedy line. "Father and the Boys" is typical of his style and abounded in that purely American satire which has made the man famous. Wm. H. Turner who played the part of Lemuel Moorewood, the "father," was everything that could be desired and his clever interpretation of the character of the old wool merchant, was what could be expected from the one who had toured the country in the role of David Harum. In the well known comedy of that name, continued applause at the end of the first act, the evening brought him before the curtain, and in a few well chosen words he told of an appreciation of the honor extended to him.

Lemuel Moorewood, who has built up a big business in wool, and who is a rich uncle of the self-made tycoon, possesses two sons. Neither one of these takes any interest in the concern which their father has spent his whole life in perfecting, one being wrapped up in athletics and the other a devotee of bridge and after tea. "They continually chide the old man" and tell him that he is "sewn miles behind the procession." The father decides to show the boys that he can not only keep up with the procession but that he can lead it in wool. He goes in for roulette, horse races and other pastimes in a way which takes the boys off their feet and incidentally throws the responsibility of the business on their shoulders. In the end they are made to take an interest in their work and also to marry the girls that father has picked out for them, and are forced to confess that dad is leading the procession.

The part of Hossie Preston, the western product, was very well done by Edith Yeager as was that of Major Dickworth, by Frank Lyman. The work of "Tuck Bartholomew" taken by Leo Hardman and Alfred Aldridge as Cal Hixon was also of especial merit.

ENDS MISERY FROM INDIGESTION OR A SICK, SOUR, GASSY STOMACH

A little Diapensin makes your out-of-order stomach feel fine in five minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapensin. If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak stomachs should take a little Diapensin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the

LAKOTAS WON FROM VARSITY CARDINALS

Local Basketball Five Victorious in Close Match At West Side Rink Saturday Evening.

Spectacular play, close guarding and fine floor work characterized the basketball contest at the West Side rink Saturday evening, in which the Lakota Cardinals defeated the University of Wisconsin Cardinals team for the first time this season. The final score was 21 to 16, but the match was so close and the teams so evenly matched that it kept the interest of the large crowd of spectators aroused throughout both halves. The first half was played under the intercollegiate rules, making the game faster and rougher but appealing to the fans who witnessed it. Langdon made the first score for the Cardinals, a field basket, and the Janesville players made victory a certainty for them by securing fifteen points to ten the University squad secured. The Varsity men played largely a defensive game, but showed some very clever work. In the last half both sides played to the best of their ability and the score at the end was even six and six. The lineup and scores:

Lakotas: Bennett, c; Cunningham, rf; Murphy, lf; Langdon, rg; Green, lc; Boers, substitute. U. W. Cardinals: Johnson, c; Spring, rf; Harper, lf; Connell, rg; King, lc; Hogan, substitute. Field baskets: Green, 3; Langdon, 2; Murphy, 2; Harper, 2; Johnson, 2; Bennett, 1; Cunningham, 1; Connell, 1. Free throws: Harper, 3; Murphy, 3; King, 1.

PRESIDENT EATON SPOKE ON TRIP TO PACIFIC COAST

Gave An Interesting Address Yesterday Afternoon at the Beloit College Vesper Service.

(Special to the Gazette.) Beloit, Feb. 5.—In the vesper service at the college chapel, Sunday, President E. D. Eaton of Beloit college told of his recent trip to the Pacific coast, to attend the inauguration of President Blaisdell of Panoma college. President Eaton spoke of the wonders of the trip, especially of the great extent of the country, and the beautiful scenery of the land where snow-capped mountains are always in view and where palm trees and huge rose bushes are used for fences around the orchards and gardens.

He also gave a brief sketch of the college situation in the west, where they already have such schools as Lehigh Stanford and the University of Washington, besides many other smaller colleges.

President Eaton's talk was very profitable and interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed by his hearers.

Success.

It wasn't so very many years ago when the ideals held up before aspiring American youth were exemplified by the most notable cases of material success. There is a change in that respect of recent years, due partly to the fact that many of these examples have been proved to be anything but desirable examples for youth to follow, and partly to the fact that there has come over the American people a strong realization that material success is not the only kind of success worth striving for, that material success does not necessarily bring happiness and content, that the lives of those who have sacrificed everything for material success are usually more bitter than those who are poor and that, in short, real success in this world lies not in the rewards secured, but in the service done to humanity.

Monroe, Wis., Feb. 6.—The site for the new federal building in Monroe has been accepted by the treasury department, and will be located at the southwest corner of Washington and Madison streets. The property belongs to Mrs. Adeline McCannant and she will receive from the department for the same the sum of $7,500. The lot is 120x150. Other sites considered were the Thorpe property, corner Madison and Russell streets, Schenck property, corner Washington and West streets, which property, however, was offered at a figure exceeding the appropriation; the Wells property, corner Washington and Monroe streets and the Elbeek-Leachy lot, corner Jackson and Payne streets.

The government inspector was here some months ago and at that time the sentiment of the people was largely in favor of the site selected. Two years will elapse before a bill can get through congress carrying an appropriation for a building.

Leicht Funeral. The funeral of Fred Leicht, murdered by George Bercey, was held from the home, the members of the Deutsche Gesellschaft and I. O. O. F. lodges and friends lining the sidewalk to the street. The church could barely accommodate the many who attended the service in St. John's Evangelical church. The Old Fellows took charge of the burial at Greenwood.

George Bercey. The Bercey funeral was held from St. Mary's church. Father Sebastian Rohr officiating. But three carriages followed the remains of the victim of the double tragedy to the grave. The pallbearers were supplied by Secretaries Verch and the Heavers, to which lodges he belonged.

Morning Air and Genus. Goethe and Schiller and Heinrich Heine found inspiration in the early morning air. Genus loves to see the chariot wheels of morning revolving over the eastern clouds. 'Tis then the best inspiration is caught—fresh and pure from the Elysian fields of heaven.

GETTING OUR GOAT.

We are yielding up our laurels, giving them up altogether. They're swiped from us by the people. When they tell you: "Clear and colder," Does the mercury get droopy? And the sky above get cloudless? Hardly! It gets warm and sloppy!

We took their prognostication. For the weather yesterday morning. And the clouds that drizzled on us. We just looked up with scornful "Clear and cold!" the paper told us. And we knew it could not fizzle. Though the day seemed very much like just a warm and sloppy drizzle.

Useless Remark.

After man has been married for several years he learns that it doesn't do any good to tell his wife about this season of the year that last year's hat is the most becoming one she ever had, and that it looks plenty good enough to wear another season.

Some men regard themselves as heroes merely because they never get seasick.

CHAPTER IX.

THE DOCTOR SEES LIZ.

LEE VIRGINIA said goodbye to Mrs. Redfield with grateful appreciation of her kindness, and especially of her invitation to come again, and the tears in her eyes profoundly affected the older woman, who, with a friendliness which was something more than politeness, invited her to come again. "Whenever you feel like it, come to my house," she said. "I will be glad to see you."

"I wish you would," she responded fervently.

She remained in the machine while he went in, and as she sat there a train passed on its downward eastward run, and a feeling of loneliness, of helplessness, filled her heart. Now that she was within sight of the railway the call of the east, the temptation to escape all her discomforts, was almost great enough to carry her away, but into her mind came the thought of the ranger riding his solitary way, and she turned her face to her own duties once more, comforted by the words of praise he had spoken, and by the blaze of admiration in his eyes.

Redfield came out, followed by a small man carrying a hat bag.

"You'd better sit behind, doctor," said Redfield. "I shall be very busy on this trip."

"Very well," replied the other, "if Miss Wetherford remains beside me, otherwise I shall wait."

He began by asking a few questions about her mother's way of life, but as Leo was not very explicit he became impatient and talked of whatsover came into his mind—motorcars, irrigation, hunting, flowers, anything at all—and the girl had nothing to do but to utter an occasional phrase to show that she was listening. It was all rather depressing to her, for she could not understand how a man so garrulous could be a good physician. She was quite sure her mother would not treat him with the slightest respect.

After all, he talked well. His stream of conversation shortened the way for her. Soon they were rolling quietly up the street to the door of the Wetherford house.

They found Leo on duty behind the counter, as usual. Her face was dejected, her eyes dull, but as she caught sight of the strange little man she cried out, "Why didn't you bring me a man, Reddy?"

"Hush, mother," cautioned Leo. "This is the famous eastern physician."

"You can't be famous for your beauty; you must be brainy," she remarked to herself in the stranger's hearing.

Redfield presented "Dr. Fessenden of Omaha."

She started again on contemptuous ways, but was stopped by the little man. "Get down out of that chair!" he commanded. "My time is money."

Liz flushed with surprise and anger, but obeyed, and Leo Virginia, secretly delighted with the physician's imperative manner, led the way into the lodging house. "I'll look after the cash, mother," she said. "Don't worry."

"I'm not worrying," she replied. "But what does that little fellow mean by talking to me like that? I'll swear him out if he isn't careful!"

"It's his way. Please don't anger him. You need his help."

The doctor interferred. "Now, madam, strip and let's see what's the matter with you," whereupon he laid off his coat and opened his box of instruments.

Leo fled, and Redfield, who had remained standing beside the counter, could not repress a smile. "She's caught a terror this time."

"Poor mother! How dreadfully ill she looks today! I hope the doctor will order her to rest."

"But will she obey? I've argued that with her. She keeps saying she will, but she won't."

It was nearly 1, but the customers were coming in, and the girl, laying aside her hat and veil, took her seat at the cash register, while Redfield went out to put his machine in order for the return trip. She realized that she was now at close hand grapple with life.

Her glowing cheeks, her pretty dress made her a shining mark, and the men began at once to improve their opportunity by asking, "Where's Liz?" And this embarrassed her, for the reason that she did not care to go into the cause of her mother's temporary absence.

Perceiving her nervousness, Nell Ballard raised loud outcry over a mistake she made in returning change, and this so confused and angered her that her eyes misted with tears, and she blundered sadly with the next customer. His delight in her discomfiture, his words, his grin, became insupportable, and in a flash of rage and despair she sprang to her feet and left them to make triumphant exit. "I got her rattled," he roared as he went out. "She'll remember me."

The others were all smiling, and Gregg took a malicious satisfaction in her defeat. She had held herself laughingly apart from him, and he was glad to see her humbled.

Leaving her place behind the counter, she walked through the room with uplifted head and burning eyes, her heart filled with bitterness and fire. She hated the whole town, the whole state at the moment. Were these "the chivalrous short grass knights" she had heard so much about—these the large souled "western founders of empire?"

At the moment she was in the belief that all the heroes of her childhood had been of the stamp of Nell Ballard.

In the hall her pride, her sense of duty, came back to her, and she halted her fleeing feet. "I will not be beaten," she declared, and her lips straightened. "I will not let these dreadful creatures make a fool of me in that way."

Thereupon she turned and went back, pale now, but resolved to prove herself the mistress of the situation. Fortunately Redfield had returned, and his serene presence helped her to recover complete control of herself. She remained coldly blank to every compliment, and by this means she subdued them.

The doctor, appearing suddenly in the door, beckoned to her, and, leaving her place, she crossed to where he stood. "Your mother needs you," he said curtly. "Go to her and keep her quiet for an hour or two if you can."

"What is the matter, doctor?"

"I can't tell you precisely, but you must get her on a diet and keep her there. I will write out some lists for you after my luncheon."

Leo found her mother sitting in such dejection as she had never known her to display, though she stood up sufficiently to say: "That cursed little thinglerigger has been throwing a great big scare into me. He says I've got to get outdoors, live on raw meat and weak tea and walk five miles a day. That's what he says," she added in renewed indignation at the man's audacity. "Who's at the cash?"

"Mr. Redfield," replied Leo. "I'll go right back."

"No, you won't. I'm no dead horse yet," she struggled to her feet and started for the cash register. "I won't let no little Omaha doughie like that put me out of business."

Despite all warnings she walked out into the dining room and took her accustomed seat with set and stern face. "Willie," her daughter went to the table where the doctor sat and explained her inability to manage her mother.

"That's your problem," he replied coolly. Then rapidly, succinctly and clearly he went over the case and laid out a course of treatment. Out of it all Leo deduced that her mother was very ill indeed, though not in danger of sudden death.

"She's on the edge," said Fessenden, "and everything depends upon your own action whether she takes the plunge this winter or twenty years from now. She's a strong woman, or has been, but she has presumed upon her strength. She used to live out of doors, she tells me, during all her early life, and now, shut in by these walls, working sixteen hours a day, she is killing herself. Get her out if you can and cut out stimulants."

As he rose and approached the counter Liz shoved a couple of gold pieces across the board. "That wipes you off my map," she grimly declared. "I hope you enjoyed your ride."

"It's up to you, madam," he replied, pocketing the gold. "Good day!"

"I'll be down again in a day or two," called Redfield.

The machine began to purr and spit and the wheels to spin, and Leo Virginia was left to face her mother's obstinate resistance alone. She felt suddenly very desolate, very weak and very poor. "What if mother should die?" she asked herself.

Gregg was standing before the counter talking with Liz as Leo returned, and he said, with a broad smile, "I've just been saying I'd like this hotel off your mother's hands provided you want with it."

In the mouths of some men these words would have been harmless enough, but coming from the tongue of one whose life could only be obscurely hinted at the best was an insult. The girl shuddered with repulsion, and Liz spoke out:

"Now, see here, Bullfrog, I'm dead on the hoof and all that, but neither you nor any other citizen like you can be funny with my girl. She's not for you. Now, that's that! She ain't your kind!"

She turned to Leo. "I'm hungry. Where's that grub chaf of mine?"

Leo brought the doctor's pangs of notes and read it through, while her mother snorted at intervals: "Hah! Dry toast, weak tea, no coffee, no alcohol, huh! I might as well starve! Eggs—fish—milk! Why didn't he say boiled fish lobsters and champagne? I tell you, right now I'm not going to go into that kind of a game. 'I'll die if I'm going to die eating what I blame please!'"

The struggle had begun. With desperate courage Leo fought, standing squarely in the rut of her mother's daily habit. "You must not live up here any longer," she insisted. "You must get out and walk and ride. I can take care of the house, at least till we can sell it."

It was like breaking the pride of an athlete, but little by little she forced upon her mother a realization of her true condition, and at last Liz consented to offer the business for sale.

Leo longed for the presence of Ross Cavanagh at this moment, when all her little world seemed tumbling into ruin, and almost in answer to her wordless prayer came a messenger from the little telephone office. "Some one wants to talk to you."

She answered this call hurriedly, thinking at first that it must be Mrs. Redfield. The booth was in the little sitting room of a private cottage, and the mistress of the place, a shrewd little woman with incisive eyes, said, "Sounds to me like Ross Cavanagh's voice."

Leo was thankful for the booth's privacy, for her cheeks flamed up at this remark, and when she took up the receiver her heart was beating so loud it seemed as if the person at the other end of the wire must hear it. "Who is it, please?" she asked, with breathless intensity.

A man's voice came back over the wire so clear, so distinct, so intimate, it seemed as if he were speaking into her ear. "It is I, Ross Cavanagh. I want to ask how your mother is."

"She is terribly disheartened by what the doctor has said, but she is in no immediate danger."

He perceived her agitation and was instantly sympathetic. "Can I be of use? Do you need me? If you do I'll come down."

"Where are you?"

"I am at the sawmill, the nearest telephone station."

"How far away are you?"

"About thirty miles."

"Oh!" She expressed in this little word her disappointment, and as it tumbled over the wire he spoke quickly: "Please tell me. Do you want me to come down? Never mind the distance, I can ride it in a few hours."

She was tempted, but bravely said: "No! I'd like to see you, of course, but the doctor said mother was in no danger. You must not come on our account."

He felt the wonder of the moment's intercourse over the wilderness steps and said so. "You can't imagine how strangely sweet and civilized your voice sounds to me here in this savage place. It makes me hope that some day you and Mrs. Redfield will come up and visit me in person."

"I should like to come."

"Perhaps it would do your mother good to camp for awhile. Can't you persuade her to do so?"

"I'm trying to do that—I mean, to stop work—but she says, 'What can we do to earn a living?'"

"If nothing happens I hope to spend an hour or two at the Park next Sunday. I hope to find your mother better."

Their words were of this unemotional sort, but in their voices something subtler than the electrical current vibrated. He called to her in wordless fashion, and she answered in the same mysterious code, and when she said "Goodbye" and hung up the receiver her world went suddenly gray and commonplace, as if a ray of special sunlight had been withdrawn.

Turns Critic Himself.

"You don't know how amused I was," said Mrs. Lapsing, "when a truckman came to carry away the kitchen stove the other day."

"Won't you need help?" I said.

"Yes," he says, "I'll have to have some assistance."

With a Severe Cough The Bowels Need a Laxative

Make this Laxative Cough Syrup Cheaply at Home

Anyone can make a full pint of this acting laxative cough syrup for about 75 to 80 cents. About eight times cheaper than labeled cough syrups, because a pint will last a family a long time. First, obtain of any well-stocked drugstore two and one-half ounces of Methylo-laxative; empty it into a pint bottle. Then make a syrup with a pint of boiling water. Stir the syrup. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every hour or two. Eight to ten doses daily will act as a mild laxative, check the cough instantly and cure it quicker than anything you can buy. This syrup builds up the strength of the system and makes the tissues of the lungs and throat healthy.

Chocolate cases yield most readily to the beneficial action. Give children less according to age.

A PERSIAN SERVANT.

He Was Poshist Even If Useless and Dishonest.

In one way Persia reminds one dimly of England, for there are such things as difficulties with servants even in Teheran. The author dismissed one of his servants, who, as he had been a tailor, was incompetent to do anything but sew on buttons. The man protested, "What will become of me now that I have been eating your salt for such a long time and am driven out into the streets?" He was reminded that he had only been employed for a fortnight. He answered that he felt it was no good, but his volubility only increased. "How can I be no good after having stayed with you? Can you forget what I've done? A piece of clay having fallen into the hammam from my beloved's hand into mine, I said to it, Art thou monk or ambergis that I am drunk with thy perfume, which catches at the heart?" It answered: "I was but a worthless piece of clay, but I was in company with a rose for a moment. This companionship transformed me or else I should still be the same piece of clay that I was."

One can pity the state of an English mistress confronted with such an argument. The author kept his servant another week, and he remarks disconsolately that in that time he discovered that if the tailor was a poet he was also a thief.—London Globe.

ADVERTISING.

The Mightiest Factor in the Modern Business World.

"Advertising is today the mightiest factor in the business world," writes Truman A. De Vries in System, the Magazine of Modern Industrial Competition. It is a business builder, with a potency that goes beyond human desire. It is something more than a 'drummer' knocking at the door of the consumer, something more than mere salesmanship on paper.

"Advertising is a positive creative force in business. It builds factories, skyscrapers and railroads. It makes two blades of grass grow in the business world where only one grew before. It multiplies human wants and intensifies desires. The result is that it forces man to greater consumption, hence stimulates his production to keep up with his buying desires."

"Before advertising was developed into a fine art and before it became a factor in the commercial world the business of the manufacturer and merchant was to supply the normal needs and desires of the human family; merchandising was hampered by man's necessities and by his meager knowledge of the luxuries which he deemed within his reach."

Evil in Timber Fires.

If the first fire had been kept out of the state of Washington the annual growth of the new timber crop would be fully the equal of the annual timber cut, and the land cut over in the fires would today be ready to yield more feet an acre than did the original cutting.

Proper and Common Nouns.

"What is the difference," said the teacher, "between a proper noun and a common noun?" The answer was not devoid of logic, but rather unexpected. "A proper noun is a noun used properly, and a common noun is a noun used commonly."—Judge.

BATH TUB HEAD REST

Hooks Over End of Tub and Affords Comfortable Support.

While bathtubs are not designed to be slept in, people have been known to take naps therein, sometimes with fatal results. For the most part, however, they have been regarded as rather uncomfortable for that purpose. A California man has come to the rescue of those who like to take their naps in the bath by providing a head rest for the tub. This head rest is made of a piece of heavy wire bent and twisted so as to form a spring support for the back of the head.

SOLID COMFORT IN THE BATH.

and leaving hooks by which the device may be hooked over the end of the tub. Often persons taking a bath for the stimulation given their tired bodies by the hot water wish to lie at ease, but have no place to put their head but the cold enamel of the tub. The rest here described solves this problem and shows that modern genius has caught up with ancient Rome at last.

Vegetarian Boots and Shoes.

An enterprising manufacturer has discovered a process whereby a possible imitation of leather may be manufactured from a vegetable product. The novelty owes its introduction to London vegetarians, who shuddered at the thought of the number of animals that were killed annually to keep humanly in boots. The imitation leather is being used for the manufacture of boots, shoes, Bible covers and a hundred other articles usually found in the art leather department.

Crossed Garments.

Clothes packed away during summer are often very creased. To remove the creases hang the article on a clothesline in the bath room, shut door and window, turn on the hot water tap to fill the room with steam, and leave the clothes for an hour or two. Afterward dry in the open air if possible.

Robber Catarrh

Steals Energy and Will Power From its Victims.

Catarrh robs its victim of energy—some physicians say of will power. That may be the reason why thousands of catarrh sufferers haven't ambition enough to accept this fair and square offer by The People's Drug Co., which they make without any whys and wherefores or red tape of any kind.

The People's Drug Co. say, "We guarantee HYOMEL to cure catarrh, acute or chronic, or money back," and that offer is open to every reader of the Gazette.

HYOMEL (pronounced High-moel) is the purest Australian Eucalyptus combined with Thymol and other germ killing antiseptics.

Four or five drops into the small wet pocket HYOMEL inhaler and breathe it into the lungs over the inflated membrane inflated with catarrh germs.

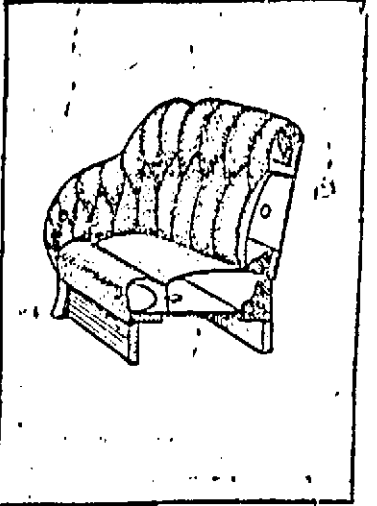

It is pleasant to use—it kills the germs, soothes the sore membrane, and cures catarrh; if it doesn't turn your money back.

A bottle of HYOMEL costs 50 cents at The People's Drug Co., and drugists everywhere. A complete outfit, which includes a bottle of HYOMEL, a hard rubber inhaler and simple instructions for use costs $1.00.

NEUMATIC FURNITURE

Patented Seat and Back Cushions Insure Solid Comfort.

Now the pneumatic principle has been applied to furniture. A California man has adapted it to the inflation of seat and back cushions for chairs and sofas, and, as may readily be imagined, it makes for solid comfort indeed. The original cushion, before the upholstering has been put on, is of rubber, and is built with wire springs to keep it from deforming too much as the air gradually escapes, which, of course, it eventually does. Each cushion has a nozzle, by which air can be pumped into it when necessary, but it will remain inflated for a long time after one blowing up. To get the best results it is advisable not to inflate the cushions too much, or the weight of the average person will not make enough impression on them to give comfort. The pneumatic seat and back yield to every motion of the body, and at every angle and curve, which is something that the best of the old-style tufted cushion does not do.

found. This antidote, moreover, is as safe as the air you breathe, yet it destroys every particle of uric acid in the blood and in every tissue, joint, muscle and part of the body.

Mrs. D. G. Hunt of Fulton, New York, says: "After 7 years I had excruciating chronic rheumatism. I had to be wheeled around in a chair, doctors said there was no hope. I began to take 'Uric.' The first dose acted like magic, and about 3 bottles of it cured me completely."

"Uric" contains no cocaine, opium, morphine, chloral, ether, chloroform, alcohol, or any stimulant or narcotic. It is guaranteed safe. A wonder, too, for gout, lumbago, and kidney troubles.
